

Argentina's New Boss Takes Over

Gen. Lonardi Promises Liberty And Democracy To Be Defended

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi, promising to defend democracy and liberty, today began the task of rebuilding the Argentine government from the wreckage of discarded Peronism. One of his first major tasks was to quell flickering violence staged by diehard supporters of ousted Juan Peron in Buenos Aires and Rosario.

The first major clash since the revolution which toppled Peron's dictatorship erupted in Rosario, 170 miles northwest of Buenos Aires and Argentina's second largest city.

Reports from Rosario said diehard Peronistas fought a pitched battle in the streets with the triumphant revolutionary army, in a wave of disorders last night.

Planes of the new anti-Peron government poured tear gas bombs on several hundred massed Peronistas, mostly workers, and tank-supported troops bore down on the holdouts. Several persons were wounded and many rioters were arrested before the fighting ended.

Moving swiftly to clamp down on the Rosario disorders, the Lonardi government's first army command warned that anyone seen on the streets after 8 p. m. would be "shot on sight." The army sped reinforcements to Rosario.

THE 59-YEAR-OLD Lonardi, who as a dissident major general led the revolution that ousted Peron, was installed as provisional president yesterday before a record crowd in Plaza de Mayo, in central Buenos Aires. Observers said the throng which cheered and sang to celebrate the new regime was larger than any gathering ever assembled by Peron's labored supporters to honor the dictator.

Standing on the balcony where Peron used to address his supporters, Lonardi read his inaugural address in a calm but husky voice.

He promised freedom and justice for all—for supporters as well as opponents of the Peron regime.

Lonardi told the labor unions which backed Peron they would have the same rights and liberties under the new regime as the elements in the Roman Catholic Church and the universities.

Touching on the church-state fight which flared in the final months of the Peron regime, Lonardi said his government would like to negotiate a concordat with the Vatican to govern relations between the government and the state church. High Roman Catholic circles which want the church's rights and responsibilities put in writing, were pleased with the proposal.

The provisional president is an ardent Roman Catholic. Peron was still aboard the closely guarded Paraguayan gunboat Paraguay in Buenos Aires Harbor. He took refuge on the vessel Tuesday night. The fallen dictator's fate appeared uncertain.

Hamilton Church's Services Banned

HAMILTON (AP)—The Free Pentecostal Church of God in Christ is under court order not to hold services tomorrow.

Judge P. P. Boli of the common pleas court signed a temporary restraining order yesterday on the complaint of Elmer C. Sons and Marcella H. O'Hara.

They told the court the congregation is a "snake cult" and that poisonous snakes handled at services could get loose and could cause harm in their community.

The Sons-O'Hara petition claimed the congregation's "devotion seems to be in direct proportion to the noise they can make." The outdoor services sometimes lasted until 2:30 a. m., they complained.

Ohio Republicans Give Solons Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio Republicans contributed $6,500 to the party's senatorial campaign committee in the three months ending Aug. 31, a GOP report said today.

The money, the senatorial committee told Congress, was contributed by the Ohio Republican Finance Committee.

On the other hand, the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee said it received nothing from Ohio or any other state during the same period.

Both committees help their party's candidates around the country, supplying speakers and sometimes money for their campaigns.

Jury Acquits 2 Whites In Negro's Death

2 Mississippi Men Still Face Kidnap Rap As First Trial Ends

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—An all white jury, composed mainly of Delta cotton farmers, acquitted two white storekeepers of the murder of a 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy yesterday, but the half-brothers spent the night in jail.

Roy Bryant, 24, and John Milam, 36, still face charges of kidnapping Emmett Louis Till from the sharecropper shack in LeFlore County where he was vacationing with his uncle, Mose Wright.

The two men were tried in Tallahatchie County because a battered, bullet pierced body, buried as Till's but later rejected by the jury, was fished from the muddy Tallahatchie River.

Jury Foreman J. A. Shaw said identification of the body was the deciding factor in the one hour seven minute deliberation that resulted in an innocent verdict on the third ballot.

"The verdict is as shameful as it is shocking," said the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in a statement from its New York headquarters.

"THE JURORS who returned it deserve a medal from the Kremlin for meritorious service in communism's war against democracy."

Bryant and Milam spent the night in the LeFlore County Jail in Greenwood when their attorneys differed with state officers over the amount of bond needed for their release under the kidnap charges.

They were taken back into custody a few minutes after they embraced their wives happily as Shaw intoned: "We, the jury, find the defendants not guilty."

Mrs. Bryant, the pretty mother of two boys, who testified a Negro man molested her Aug. 24, said with a relieved smile: "I'm very happy. I feel a lot better than I did on the witness stand."

Before the trial, officers said the 21-year-old woman was the object of Till's wolf whistle. But on the stand, as a defense witness, she mentioned no names in relating the episode at the store.

The storekeepers did not testify in their defense, but before the trial they claimed to have released

Sub-Oceanic Activity Eyed Off Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—An outbreak of sub-oceanic activity west of Hawaii has caught the attention of the Navy's Hydrographic Office and alerted volcanologists.

Several times in recent weeks military pilots have reported sighting a land mass with breaking surf where charts show only ocean depths. There were other signs of volcanic activity—smoke and yellow and orange streaks across long stretches of water.

Scientists have believed for years that the northern part of the Hawaiian chain was dead volcanically. The chain, stretches about 1,000 miles northwest of the main islands in a string of islets, reefs and shoals. The only eruptions in modern times have spouted on the southernmost islands of Hawaii and Maui.

Dr. Gordon MacDonald, Hawaii volcanologist, said the latest disturbances "point out the fact that you could get an eruption on Kauai or Oahu."

The latter island with its capital of Honolulu is home for most of Hawaii's half million population. MacDonald said it's only "a very remote possibility" but even the long dead volcanic crater of Mauna Loa could erupt into something more than a tourist attraction.

Yes, She Looks Pretty 'Dum'

HONOLULU (AP)—A girl wrote to a Honolulu newspaper that she liked a story about her very much complained:

That's the way she spelled it, d-u-m.

New Bridge Finally Opened, But Officials Have Troubles

NEW HOPE, Pa. (AP)—They finally got the New Hope-Lambertville, N. J., Bridge reopened yesterday, but it was certainly touch and go for a while.

The fault seemed to be that no one thought of letting the proper authorities know what was planned for the formal reopening of the bridge linking this Bucks County town with Lambertville across the Delaware River. The bridge was battered by floods last month.

The bridge actually had been restored to use Thursday morning, and traffic was moving briskly when the dedications arrived the following day.

About 100 persons jiggled impatiently on the Lambertville side, waiting to move to the middle of the bridge and greet 40 to 50 from the Pennsylvania shore. In the center was to be a ribbon; and the man to snip it was Harry Shepherd, mayor of Lambertville.

Suddenly, a bark cut across the activity:

"No one goes across! Nobody marches, see!"

IT WAS THE bridge guard talking, and heeding in no wise the outcries of dismay.

"That's our orders and we're carrying them out. We can't have traffic interrupted by this sort of thing."

"But the bridge has been closed for weeks," Mayor Shepherd expostulated. "And this will take only half an hour."

The guard, unmoved, said: "Use the pedestrian walk."

Pennsylvanians and New Jerseyites alike withdrew, reformed their lines and made a fresh start at a much quickened pace.

"No bridge ever was dedicated so fast," one of the official party commented.

Col. Charles Schoeffel, of the Delaware River Toll Bridge Commission, said the show as originally planned wasn't permitted because the bridge is part of an interstate highway and interruption of traffic therefore was prohibited.

Nine East Coast states, however, will stick with daylight saving time until the end of October.

In two states some communities go back to standard time while others in the same state wait until the end of October.

Clocks will be turned back an hour tomorrow in California, Nevada, the District of Columbia and in those communities which have daylight saving time in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Mexico, Virginia and West Virginia. The change is usually made at 2 a. m.

In Pennsylvania and Illinois some cities shift to standard time this weekend, while others, including Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago, continue with daylight saving time through October.

Entire states waiting until the end of October to return to standard time are New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

AS FOR AERIAL inspection of the military establishments of both countries, Bulganin said bluntly that proposal would not lead "to effective progress towards insuring security of states and successful accomplishments of disarmament."

Countering the President's proposals, the Soviet premier reiterated long-standing Kremlin policy. He called for reduction of armed forces, agreement on dates for banning atomic weapons, and establishment of "control posts" to guard against the possibility of sudden attack by one country against the other.

Pending completion of the reply Eisenhower is drafting, there was no official White House comment. But it was learned the Bulganin note is not being regarded as an outright rejection of the Eisenhower plan.

Wild Wedding Trip Ends In Auto Crash

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the wildest wedding trips on record ended yesterday in jail for a Cleveland couple — before their date with the preacher.

Frank F. Hudson Jr., 20, and Shirley Blair, who said she was 14, crawled out of a wrecked station wagon beside a railroad track to surrender to officers.

Hudson said the station wagon was the fourth vehicle stolen on the trip.

The police chase started within minutes after the station wagon was taken from a driveway.

Officers scouting the getaway route spotted the vehicle being serviced at a filling station and stopped. The hood was up but the couple took off "making 90."

The hood blew off, just missing the pursuing officers, and the chase continued to near Louisa, Ky., where the station wagon jumped a guard rail on a curve and landed along the gravel roadbed of the railroad.

Hudson attempted a break but stopped when officers threatened to shoot. The girl, bruised and dazed but not seriously injured, was taken from the wreckage.

Asked where they had planned to be married, the girl said she was "too tired to remember."

Reward Offered For Ohio Girl

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—An Ohioan today offered a $500 reward for information leading to the location of his niece, Madeline Avanel Stapleton of Huntington.

The 22-year-old blue-eyed brunette has been missing from her home since Sept. 5. A daughter of Mrs. Cleffie R. Stapleton of Franklin Furnace, Ohio, she lived and worked here.

The uncle, Perry Rucker of Chillicothe, said the reward would be paid whether Miss Stapleton was found dead or alive. Her family believes she has met with foul play, he said.

Cost Of Living Shows Slight Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reports that seasonally lower food prices brought a decline in living costs in August.

The decline reversed a moderate upward trend in June and July in the index kept by the Labor Department's statistics bureau.

Lower prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, as more abundant food supplies reached the market, were responsible for the August food price decline. Earlier summer produce prices had been high due to short supply after a spring freeze.

Second Truck Ignited By First Blast

Locomotive's Boiler Hurlled 300 Yards By Explosion In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A dynamite-loaded truck and a train collided last night near Torreon, touching off a shattering explosion that took the lives of more than 40 persons. In a chain reaction, the collision and explosion set off the cargo of a second dynamite-carrying truck.

Reports from the scene said more than 40 bodies had been recovered and the death toll might reach 70. More than 150 persons were injured.

Authorities said the two trucks, both heavily loaded with explosives, were racing without lights when the lead vehicle collided with the Torreon-to-Chihuahua train.

Torreon is about 200 miles west of Monterrey in north central Mexico.

The explosion hurled the boiler of the locomotive 300 yards. The engine of one truck was found 700 yards from the crash and scattered dead and injured were found over a 300-yard radius.

The blast leveled houses on nearby Rancho Gualera, killing several workers.

THE TRAIN, made up of two passenger cars, a freight car and a mail car, was destroyed.

A huge crater was torn out of the railroad. Railroad officials said it would take two or three days to put the line to the United States border back in service.

Windows in the town of Gomez Palacio, two miles from the scene, were broken. Hundreds of panic-stricken residents of the community fled from theatres.

The trucks were believed carrying dynamite to mining operations in the area.

One-Man Picket Line Still Holds

BESEMER, Ala. (AP)—Another effort to solve a dispute between a former guard and the Pullman-Standard Mfg. Co., which has shut down, will be made tomorrow.

E. L. McClain, 31, set up a picket line Wednesday with the help of his wife and two of his four children. By Thursday, the plant was closed.

U. S. Workers of America, to which McClain belongs, called the work stoppage illegal. But McClain won't budge his picket line. He claims his discharge, after a fight with a fellow worker, was unjust. Union members voted to observe the picket line.

Audrey Finds Marriage Is Excellent Idea

ROME (AP)—Audrey Hepburn has been married for a year and she says "marriage is wonderful."

The girl who now is perhaps the highest paid actress in the world married actor Mel Ferrer beside Lake Constance in Switzerland last Sept. 25. It was her first marriage and his fourth.

"Marriage is completion to everything you've ever wanted and hoped for," she says. "I wish now I had not waited so long."

"I love doing things together. You're never alone or lonesome. You decide together whether to write someone or whether to go out and then you do it together."

It has been a year bright with success for the 26-year-old Academy Award winner. She won a coveted film part, Natasha, in "War and Peace." Her salary soared to a reputed $350,000 a picture, but success is not new and, with marriage, is far sweeter than ever before. Audrey said:

"I used to get home and be too tired to eat. I haven't missed a meal since Mel and I were married—he won't let me. Or, if I am tired, he sees I don't stay up. I don't worry anymore. I'm happy. My role in 'War and Peace' is nearly over and I'm not tired. It's the first time in my life I haven't been exhausted when a picture ends."

Hillsboro Horse Handler Killed

HILLSBORO (AP)—J. C. Jewett, a horse handler, suffocated early today in a fire which damaged his three-room home. His wife and two children were away from home.

Although Jewett also suffered severe burns, Dr. J. M. Byers, coroner, ruled death was caused by suffocation. He said the fire may have started in the kitchen when an oil stove flared up.

Jewett was employed as a horse handler by Berry's Stables at Hillsboro.

Only a year ago Jewett's 2-year-old son drowned in a sewer.

Ohio Village Offices Pay Small Salaries

Average Mayor's Pay Listed At $199 Yearly, Councilmen Low, Too

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio villages will elect mayors, councilmen and other local officials on Nov. 8, but salary will be slight inducement for candidates to run. From A to Z—Aberdeen to Zoar—some 500 of Ohio's 750 villages have fewer than 1,000 residents. The average pay for mayors in the smaller villages is $199 a year. That's a year, not a month. Village clerks average $183 and councilmen between $24 and $48 annually. State Auditor James A. Rhodes came up with the figures after combing the required reports on examiners who check the books of public officials. Audit reports on 22 typical villages in nine scattered counties provided what Rhodes termed a good cross-section of "Main Street" in Ohio.

Mayors in all 22 villages received a total of $4,386. Clerks who kept the same set of books as those in big towns drew a total of $4,024 in those villages.

Some villages have treasurers as well as clerks, while others combine their duties in the office of clerk-treasurer.

Lowest paid mayor in the sampled villages was Joe Wade of Jacksonburg, Butler County. He drew $7 a year. Highest paid was Floyd Stiff of Murray City in eastern Hocking County. He got $480. Jacksonburg has 115 residents, Murray City about 750.

If the sample means anything, no one gets arrested in about 160 towns from one year to the next. Seven of the 22 villages reported no cases in the mayor's court during periods ranging from two to four years.

Besides Jacksonburg they were: Ostrander in Delaware County; Old Washington, Fairview and Salesville in Guernsey County; Whitehouse in Lucas County and Marblehead in Ottawa County.

Many towns lack a jail and some have no arresting officer, the records indicated.

The total collected by mayors in fines, costs and license fees in 21 of the 22 villages for periods of two to four years was $5,454.

An exception was Monroe in Butler County. The town of about 300 residents straddles busy U.S. 25 between Cincinnati and Dayton.

An audit showed the Monroe Mayor's Court took in about eight times as much as the other 21 villages between August 1952, and April 1955. The total hit $34,713 with highway patrol cases accounting for most of the collections.

The salary of Thomas G. Linn, Monroe mayor, was $360 a year. Until last year, mayors were able to augment their salaries by keeping fees assessed in cases their courts handled. But the Legislature abolished the "fee system" for mayors.

State examiners reported most officials diligent in their public duties. Every cent was accounted for properly in 18 of the 22 villages. They were: Old Washington, Seneca, Pleasant City, Fairview, Salesville and Lore City in Guernsey County; Millersport and Bremen in Fairfield County; Quincy in Logan County; Ostrander, Shawnee Hills and Powell in Delaware County; Jacksonburg and Seven Mile in Butler County; Buchtel in Athens County and Murray City, Whitehouse and Marblehead.

Total "findings for recovery" in the other four villages totaled only $28.

County-wide Educational Meeting Scheduled For Next Wednesday

A special county conference on education has been called for next Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Courtroom.

Other counties in Ohio are having similar meetings to discuss the problems of education as a preliminary to talks at higher levels. Recommendations reached at this meeting will be sent to a state conference and later may be included in the Ohio report to the National White House Conference.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, has been chosen to represent this area in the national conference. He lists the following categories to be considered in the county study:

1. What is it the people want the schools to accomplish? Do they want to be concerned with preparing the child to fit into his future role as a member of a complex society, or should they restrict themselves largely to the fundamentals, such as "the 3 R's"?
2. What buildings might be needed? And how many teachers are needed?
3. How can we finance our schools?
4. How can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically?
5. How can we obtain a continuing public interest in education?

And how your tractor performs with the Brillion. Smooth, steady... no jars, jerks, or jolts. No shock to transmission gears, bearings or shafts. ## Air Raid Siren Allowed Atop Building Here

The city has permission to place its new air raid siren atop the Crist building, on the northwest corner of Court and Main Streets, it was disclosed today.

Wallace Crist, owner of the building, said he gave Civil Defense Director Bernard Tait permission to have the siren installed, on condition that a thorough check would be made beforehand as to safety conditions. Tait said the checkup is already under way.

To insure safety, Tait added, reinforcing supports will be put in position. Work on the installation, he said, should begin in about a week.

Proper location for the big air raid siren has been the subject of off-and-on controversy here since the apparatus was purchased.

Through a matching fund arrangement, federal, state and local civil defense money was used to buy the equipment.

Stephen Foster melodies provided the background for the halftime show presented by the Circleville High School marching band.

Forming a covered wagon, the band played "Oh Susanna" as a tribute to the pioneers who made the perilous journey westward. To the strains of "Camptown Races", the "wagon wheels" began to turn.

Inspections Ended For School Buses

Inspection of Pickaway County school buses has been completed by the State Patrol here.

The annual checkup involved 68 vehicles her, with 35 being listed satisfactory, 32 unsatisfactory and one unserviceable. State Patrolman Gene Miller was the inspecting officer, assisted by Patrolmen Jim Cooper and Paul Abbott.

"Unsatisfactory" classification means that there are minor repairs which have to be made on the vehicles. However, these buses may continue to operate while these repairs are being made.

Ford To Open Series For Yankee '9'

BOSTON (AP)—Whitey Ford will open the World Series for the New York Yankees Wednesday at Yankee Stadium, probably facing Brooklyn's Don Newcombe in a renewal of the subway rivalry.

Manager Casey Stengel named Ford last night as the visitors' club-house at Fenway Park rang with cheers for the little left-hander's part in the 3-2 pennant-clinching victory over Boston.

Tommy Byrne probably will pitch the second game at the stadium with Bob Grim, Don Larsen and Bob Turley ready for the Ebbetts Field games.

"Don't worry, the Yankees always take care of the series," said Stengel with an extra special double wink for the cameramen. After winning six pennants in seven years, the "Old Perfesser" has discarded the single wink attack for the double wink.

"There was times when I screamed for a strike and all I got was another ball," said Case. "I'm glad we had to fight so hard for the pennant. It'll make us just that much tougher for the job of beating someone else."

"I want to congratulate my players for coming from behind when there were four clubs to beat. Detroit was a big help at the right time."

Heavy Fine Levied Against Orioles

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, taking his most severe punitive action since getting the job in 1951, has fined Baltimore Orioles and General Manager Paul Richards $4,500 for violation of the bonus rule.

The infringement, which Frick called conduct detrimental to baseball, involved the signing of college boy Thomas Borland. Frick made the ex-Oklahoma A&M pitcher a free agent.

Baltimore was fined $2,000 and Richards was fined $2,500 and warned of a suspension "for one or more years" should the violation be repeated.

Ohio Village Offices Pay Small Salaries

Average Mayor's Pay Listed At $199 Yearly, Councilmen Low, Too

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio villages will elect mayors, councilmen and other local officials on Nov. 8, but salary will be slight inducement for candidates to run. From A to Z—Aberdeen to Zanesville—some 500 of Ohio's 750 villages have fewer than 1,000 residents.

The average pay for mayors in the smaller villages is $199 a year. That's a year, not a month. Village clerks average $183 and councilmen between $24 and $48 annually.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes came up with the figures after combing the required reports on examiners who check the books of public officials.

Audit reports on 22 typical villages in nine scattered counties provided what Rhodes termed a good cross-section of "Main Street" in Ohio.

Mayors in all 22 villages received a total of $4,386. Clerks who kept the same set of books as those in big towns drew a total of $4,024 in those villages.

Some villages have treasurers as well as clerks, while others combine their duties in the office of clerk-treasurer.

Lowest paid mayor in the sampled villages was Joe Wade of Jacksonburg, Butler County. He drew $7 a year. Highest paid was Floyd Stiff of Murray City in eastern Hocking County. He got $480. Jacksonburg has 115 residents, Murray City about 750.

If the sample means anything, no one gets arrested in about 160 towns from one year to the next. Seven of the 22 villages reported no cases in the mayor's court during periods ranging from two to four years.

Besides Jacksonburg they were: Ostrander in Delaware County; Old Washington, Fairview and Salesville in Guernsey County; Whitehouse in Lucas County and Marblehead in Ottawa County.

Many towns lack a jail and some have no arresting officer, the records indicated.

The total collected by mayors in fines, costs and license fees in 21 of the 22 villages for periods of two to four years was $5,454.

An exception was Monroe in Butler County. The town of about 300 residents straddles busy U.S. 25 between Cincinnati and Dayton.

An audit showed the Monroe Mayor's Court took in about eight times as much as the other 21 villages between August 1952, and April 1955. The total hit $34,713 with highway patrol cases accounting for most of the collections.

The salary of Thomas G. Linn, Monroe mayor, was $360 a year. Until last year, mayors were able to augment their salaries by keeping fees assessed in cases their courts handled. But the Legislature abolished the "fee system" for mayors.

State examiners reported most officials diligent in their public duties. Every cent was accounted for properly in 18 of the 22 villages. They were: Old Washington, Senecaville, Pleasant City, Fairview, Salesville and Lore City in Guernsey County; Millersport and Bremen in Fairfield County; Quincy in Logan County; Ostrander, Shawnee Hills and Powell in Delaware County; Jacksonburg and Seven Mile in Butler County; Buchtel in Athens County and Murray City, Whitehouse and Marblehead.

Total "findings for recovery" in the other four villages totaled only $28.

County-wide Educational Meeting Scheduled For Next Wednesday

A special county conference on education has been called for next Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Courtroom.

Other counties in Ohio are having similar meetings to discuss the problems of education as a preliminary to talks at higher levels. Recommendations reached at this meeting will be sent to a state conference and later may be included in the Ohio report to the National White House Conference.

George McDowell, county superintendent of schools, has been chosen to represent this area in the national conference. He lists the following categories to be considered in the county study:

1. What is it the people want the schools to accomplish? Do they want to be concerned with preparing the child to fit into his future role as a member of a complex society, or should they restrict themselves largely to the fundamentals, such as "the 3 R's"?

2. What buildings might be needed? And how many teachers are needed?

3. How can we finance our schools?

4. How can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically?

5. How can we obtain a continuing public interest in education?

ALL SCHOOL patrons, board members, teachers and any others interested in educational problems are invited to attend Wednesday's meeting here.

McDowell said that the White House Conference on Education was brought about because of "educational crises facing almost every community in the country."

He noted that President Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message to the 83rd Congress in January 1954, asked for a national study of these problems.

First discussions were to start on a statewide level and culminate in Washington, D. C. This will take place Nov. 28 to Dec. 1 (Ohio is entitled to send 68 delegates, who will be chosen, along with alternates, by the state executive committee.)

Ohio held its first meeting in Columbus July 20-21. A second conference has been scheduled for Oct. 24, to be held at the Student Union on the campus of Ohio State University.

At the Columbus meeting, each county will submit its suggestions. Then, these will be culled and worked into a state report to be presented in Washington.

These suggestions will be of a general nature and will not conflict with the work of county citizens' committees.

But Dist. Atty. Gerald Chatham told the jury:

"I was born and bred in the South. I'll live and die in the South. The very worst punishment that could have occurred or should have occurred if they had any idea in their minds that this boy had done anything was to take a razor strap, turn him over a barrel and give him a little beating."

Principal in the case are Mrs. Lois Hanford Ferguson, 27, of Cincinnati; the boy, Richard Hanford Jr.; the father, Richard W. Hanford of Irving, Tex., and Common Pleas Judge Charles F. Weber.

Mrs. Ferguson has been in hiding since the court ruled she must send her son back to Texas. The husband was given custody of the child in 1950.

Judge Weber said he had the deepest sympathy for the mother but "she is making a mockery of the court."

Cavey To Hear Judge's Sentence

CHARDON (AP)—Leo Cavey appears in court today to be sentenced to prison for the bludgeoning murder of 80-year-old Alva J. Williams, a wealthy mill owner.

Life in the Ohio Penitentiary, with parole eligibility after 10 years, faces the 43-year-old well-driller, who pleaded guilty yesterday to second-degree murder.

The plea cut short Cavey's first-degree murder trial, which was in its ninth day. The well driller had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity due partly to excessive drinking. In statements to police, he had admitted the slaying.

But who's in left? Could be Junior Gilliam or maybe Sandy Amoros.

If neither Gilliam nor Amoros produce in the first game or two, look for Jackie Robinson to move to left with Don Hoak taking over third base.

The Yankees' question mark is Mickey Mantle. Because of his pulled thigh muscle, the fleet center fielder's chances of starting in the opening game next week are problematical. And Mickey's one of the Yanks' big guns with an American League-leading total of 37 homers.

Without Mantle, Casey Stengel will have to go with Irv Noren in center, Elston Howard in left and Hank Bauer in right. Should Mantle be ready, Noren and Howard will divide the left field job.

Snider is coming off his best regular season performance. Furillo, too, is having one of his better years.

The Cleveland Indians, who still have a slim chance, also have their outfield problems. Right fielder Al Smith has had a good season. But Larry Doby's been a disappointment and Hoot Evers, Ralph Kiner and Gene Woodling are fading veterans.

Let's look at the teams in a position-by-position breakdown:

Left field—Yankees have the edge. Noren and Howard have been platooned effectively. The Gilliam-Amoros combo is weak. So is the Evers-Woodling twosome.

Center field—Snider over Mantle and Doby. The Duke has the all-around edge.

Right field—Tossup. Furillo has the best record and the 'strongest throwing arm. But Bauer is a great competitor and Smith is a tough man in the money ball games.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Halfback Tommy Doolittle of Oklahoma City took off on what seemed like a touchdown run in the first quarter of the game against Oklahoma City Southeast last night.

He broke away from the opposition secondary at midfield and was loose. But, so were his pants. He clutched the ball with one hand and the sagging lower half of his football gear with the other. With nobody near him, Doolittle tripped on the 10-yard line over his falling britches. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

Teaching Diligently Theme Of Sermon For Presbyterians

The theme for worship at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning will be, "Teach Them Diligently". The Rev. Donald Mitchell will develop the sermon from the 6th chapter of the Book of Deuteronomy.

A great man in our time has said, "Education without religion is no education at all!" However true! One needs but look about him to see the appalling contrast between personalities who have taken their religious training seriously and others who have not; or, still others whose training has been neglected or denied.

Diligence in the art of teaching children the religion of "love of God and neighbor" has given to the world that greatest parable, "The Good Samaritan", which is a worthy religion in itself. Our neighbors are the people about us, and we are theirs.

The man who falls among thieves is as much the Good Samaritan as his neighbor. This is the principle of "the good life" of which we speak. If we will but teach this diligently, it is bound to be more diligently practiced and result in fewer thieves!

The choir will sing, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee". It will also assist the congregation with the hymns "When Morning Gilds The Skies" and "Christ Of The Upward Way". At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play: "Ballade in 'D'", "Au Matin" and "These Things Shall Be". Mrs. Clark will direct the music.

During the worship service, the Sunday school officers and teaching staff will be presented with certificates of appreciation by their superintendent, Ed Grigg. The new teachers and officers will be installed by the pastor.

Promotion Day exercises will be a feature in the worship service. Adult Rally Day will be observed, with Mrs. Frank Hawkes presiding.

Miss Lucille Kirkwood, organist, will play the following numbers: prelude, "Pastorale", by Leybach; offertory, "Devotion", by Wely; and postlude, "Alla Marcia", by Brison.

As special offering will be received for the trustee fund.

Sunday school in the children's department will convene in the Service Center at 9:30 a. m. with Miss Gladys Noggle in charge. Church school in the adult and young people's department will meet at 10:35 a. m.

Two Themes Set On Sunday Activity For Calvary EUB

The Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church has planned a General Rally Day emphasis for the church and church school on Sunday morning.

An attendance goal of 150 persons present in the Sunday church school has been set. Each class within the Sunday church school has its individual attendance goal as well.

In addition to the general rally emphasis to be given to Sunday morning, the day has also been designated "Promotion Sunday". Numerous children of all ages will be promoted to older age groupings in a special service of recognition on Sunday morning.

Pastor James B. Recob plans to speak during the worship hour on the topic "The Power-filled Life".

A brief meeting of the church council of administration will be held at the conclusion of the morning program. All members of the council are asked to attend this short session.

The milk produced annually in the United States would fill a river 300 miles long, three feet deep and 40 feet wide.

Westminster Youth Set Annual Confab

Sunday afternoon, Westminster Fellowship Youth Group will hold its annual "campfire meeting" at the home of the moderator, Beau Stevenson. This is a time for election of new officers, for fun together and for consecration to the important program of WF for the new year; and to pledge of loyalty to Christ and to each other in carrying out this important program together to the glory and honor of His church.

All young people of the church between the ages of 12 and 23 are asked to meet at the church at 4 p. m. and arrange transportation.

What is education but a broadening of man's knowledge, enabling him to live a better life? Education is like a doorway leading to the fulfillment of dreams and ambitions. Beyond it lies the vast chamber of the mind, and scientists know that in a lifetime most men develop only a small part of their mental potentialities.

In our search for education today, one type is sometimes slighted . . . religious education. Yet in all the fields of learning what could be more important? Man needs Faith and a knowledge of his Church if he is to reconcile so much that is happening in the world of today with the kind of future he would like to have. In your reading and studies, don't forget religion. There is nothing stuffy about the study of it, nothing dull. It is as significant as yesterday . . . as full of promise as all tomorrow.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Two Themes Set On Sunday Activity For Calvary EUB

The Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church has planned a General Rally Day emphasis for the church and church school on Sunday morning.

An attendance goal of 150 persons present in the Sunday church school has been set. Each class within the Sunday church school has its individual attendance goal as well.

In addition to the general rally emphasis to be given to Sunday morning, the day has also been designated "Promotion Sunday". Numerous children of all ages will be promoted to older age groupings in a special service of recognition on Sunday morning.

Pastor James B. Recob plans to speak during the worship hour on the topic "The Power-filled Life". A brief meeting of the church council of administration will be held at the conclusion of the morning program. All members of the council are asked to attend this short session.

The year 1946 was a record one for marriages. There were 2,291,000 marriages in that 12-month period.

Lutheran Church To End Series Of Special Sermons

At the 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. services in Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday, Pastor Carl G. Zehner will present the last in a series of sermons on some of the Old Testament Prophets entitled, "What Do The Prophets Say?" His sermon this week will be taken from Ezekiel 37:1-14.

The senior choir will lead the congregational singing at the early service. At the late service, the children's choir will sing, "Beautiful Savior".

Sunday school will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m.

At the 10:45 a. m. service, the following babies will be baptized: Jeff Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Johnson; Lynne Denise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Easter; and Melissa Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

Services will be held in Christ Church, Lick Run, at 2 p. m.

Westminster Youth Set Annual Confab

Sunday afternoon, Westminster Fellowship Youth Group will hold its annual "campfire meeting" at the home of the moderator, Beau Stevenson. This is a time for election of new officers, for fun together and for consecration to the important program of WF for the new year; and to pledge of loyalty to Christ and to each other in carrying out this important program together to the glory and honor of His church.

All young people of the church between the ages of 12 and 23 are asked to meet at the church at 4 p. m. and arrange transportation.

What is education but a broadening of man's knowledge, enabling him to live a better life? Education is like a doorway leading to the fulfillment of dreams and ambitions. Beyond it lies the vast chamber of the mind, and scientists know that in a lifetime most men develop only a small part of their mental potentialities.

In our search for education today, one type is sometimes slighted . . . religious education. Yet in all the fields of learning what could be more important? Man needs Faith and a knowledge of his Church if he is to reconcile so much that is happening in the world of today with the kind of future he would like to have. In your reading and studies, don't forget religion. There is nothing stuffy about the study of it, nothing dull. It is as significant as yesterday . . . as full of promise as all tomorrow.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

UNEASY SITUATION

FULL EMPLOYMENT which the United States now approximates is a grand thing up to a point. But occasionally some workers get the idea that a job doesn't amount to much and that they can walk away from it for any or no reason.

This seems to be the case on the New York waterfront where members of the International Longshoremen's Association walked out without an authorization by their officers or a membership vote to strike. It made no difference, either, that the union was pledged not to strike during the term of the present contract.

The government has a Waterfront Commission to adjust disputes. Recently the Commission refused to grant a work license to a man with a criminal past. The anger of the longshoremen exploded, even though the Commission was merely performing its duty. Instead of asking for a rehearing and pursuing due processes, the workers renounced authority and quit.

This contempt for authority, particularly among seafaring workers, is disquieting because of the charges of communist infiltration into such unions on both East and West coasts and in all the free countries. It has been said that the Kremlin probably could tie up the shipping of the world at a signal.

Whether true or not, it is something to bear in mind as organized labor in the United States struggles to free itself of all "party line" infiltration. It is a situation to be cleared up well ahead of any international emergency.

ATOMIC CHALLENGE

WITH THE application of atomic energy to peacetime uses becoming more imminent daily, the scientists are hard at work to find a method of protection against the effects of atomic radiation. One method of treatment has worked out with fair success with laboratory animals and is being studied for human requirements.

This would require the person exposed to a strong dose of radiation to take a pill of a chemical called "thiuronium." Next he would get an injection of bone marrow to hasten recovery from radiation effects, followed by a shot of streptomycin, to hold down bacterial infection which is potentially high in cases of radiation damage.

At the Atomic Energy Commission laboratory at Oak Ridge, where this triple-gauntlet protective procedure has been evolved, it is not known but that the proposed chemical antidote may be too toxic for man to take. One thing is certain, however, if man is to live with atomic energy he will have to find a safe, quick way to stay alive in spite of its lethal peril.

Science, which has unraveled many a medical mystery that once lay beyond the boundaries of human knowledge, confronts a problem all the more challenging because it stems from man's own ingenuity.

EXPORTING CAPITAL

BETTING against war, depression and other world calamities, private capital in the United States is investing heavily in foreign lands. The total has now reached $26.6 billion from which, the Department of Commerce announces, earnings of $2.5 billion were derived last year.

One approach to foreign investment is through the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development. This World Bank, financed by 56 member nations, is more and more turning over prospective loans to interested U. S. financiers. They lend for roads, factories and other improvements in countries appearing to have political stability.

It is not difficult to envision a time when the booming American economy will have a dynamic outlet abroad, exporting its surplus wealth and providing jobs and business opportunities for thousands of young Americans in many lands.

GOOD POLIO NEWS

PROOF THAT the Salk vaccine is preventing paralytic polio continues to pile up. Partial figures on a situation approaching epidemic proportions in Massachusetts showed 15 cases of paralytic and non-paralytic polio per 10,000 among unvaccinated children. There was less than one case per 10,000 among children vaccinated with two or more shots of the vaccine.

These Days

There are several kinds of tax-free money but there is no category which permits political activity. The issue then is: What is a political activity?

The Fund for the Republic, established by the Ford Foundation which is fed by the profits of the Ford Motor Company, defines its own function as follows:

"The Fund for the Republic was established to deal with problems that exist today. It expects to spend its principal as fast as this can be judiciously done. It is not engaged in the support of long-term research. It is not interested in scholarship as such. Nor is it concerned with general education. Its efforts are focused on the immediate issues of civil liberties. When it engages in research, or sponsors it, the Fund is seeking to obtain answers to questions that are pressing now."

In a word, it is not a scholarly or research organization; it is not engaged in education or charity. It exists to deal with problems of the day.

Further in the report, the Fund specifies the problems of the day which concern it: "... A political party in this country has been identified with the 'enemy.' Those associated with this party have therefore come under suspicion as an imminent danger to the state. In view of the weapons now available and of the examples of subversion that other countries have offered, the danger has seemed great, though often mysterious and intangible. It has appeared that the peril to the country could be dealt with only by methods that drastically departed from those which have characterized Anglo-American jurisprudence."

What is the name of the "political party" that has been identified with the "enemy"? Obviously, it is the Communist Party, U.S.A. Are we to take it, from this statement, that the Ford Foundation has contributed $15,000,000 to The Fund for the Republic to defend the Communist Party?

Apparently Robert Hutchins, who wrote the report from which I quote, surely could not have meant the Republican Party or the Democratic Party or even, the Liberal Party, for it is only the Communist Party which has been identified with the "enemy." (The quotation marks are Hutchins'.)

Further, we might ask: who is this "enemy"? Hutchins also leaves that name out, perhaps from coyness. Well, we know who the enemy is, because this country has been sorely taxed by him. The "enemy" is Soviet Russia and its agent in the United States is the Communist Party.

It might, in this connection, be of value to report the findings of the Australian Commission on this subject:

"Without communism, Soviet espionage could have no hope of success in this country and the existence here of Communists who were and are willing to act to the prejudice of Australia was the fundamental cause of the formation of our Security Service and necessitates its retention in its present role as a 'fourth service' essential to the security and defense of Australia."

So, Robert Hutchins, having stated the problem which faces the Fund for the Republic, proceeds to dodge it.

"The Fund for the Republic takes no position on these matters, beyond affirming its faith in the principles upon which our government is founded, as set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. . ."

Whereupon it sends investigators all over the country to discover what has been done to interfere with the free functioning of Communists in the United States. Some of these investigators have long been rejected by opponents of Communism. With one exception, for instance, those who tried to contact me were objectionable to me both as persons and for their prior political activities. One is not required to receive in his home or at his office a person whom he would not ordinarily receive only because that person got a job with the Fund for the Republic.

What this report of the Fund for the Republic indicates to me, as a student of these problems and methods, is that the Fund, as an action organization, is attempting to use the $15,000,000 that the Ford Foundation has given it, to take over the work of the Congressional committees and to smother all anti-Communist investigations and activities. If that is its intention, it will fail. If that is not its intention, why interfere with the Congressional committees?

closed that the vaccine is having a good effect everywhere. Comparisons supplied by 23 states proved that in each age group there was less polio after vaccination.

After the uncertainties of a fast spring this is the best possible news. Parents everywhere now can be reasonably certain that the worst effects of polio belong to the past.

The War On Asthma

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU don't have to suffer from asthma.

While we can't cure you, we can, with the proper drugs, control just about any asthmatic attack.

There are numerous drugs which will act effectively depending, of course, upon certain conditions.

Doctor's Prescription

A doctor's prescription is required for virtually all of them. Indeed, I hope I don't have to caution you against taking any medicine for a disease such as this without your doctor's advice.

But it might relieve you a bit to know just how many drugs there are in case you need them and what some of them will do.

The most valuable drug in treatment of asthma for some time has been epinephrine. It still is, although ACTH and cortisone frequently produce dramatic results.

A modified form of Sus-Phrine is effective in small doses. It does not produce the side reactions which sometimes accompany epinephrine.

Isuprel is helpful in milder cases.

Works Slowly

Many doctors prefer use of epinephrine either orally or by injection. If taken by mouth, it works slowly and frequently makes the patient nervous.

Aminophylline can be given intravenously, through the mouth, or by rectal instillation.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

N. G.: I seem to have more saliva in my mouth than usual. Does it mean anything?

Answer: The normal amount of saliva varies in different individuals. A great increase occurs occasionally in nervous diseases, in acute infections, infections of the mouth and especially from the use of certain drugs as well as tobacco.

After the cause for this condition has been determined, proper treatment can be carried out by your physician.

Try, Stop Me

A prosperous merchant went South on vacation to do a little hunting. He rented a hunting dog for five dollars at the lodge he patronized and sallied forth. It soon became apparent that this dog was a champion. In one hour the merchant was back with a full bag, his reputation as a huntsman greatly enhanced.

The next year he demanded the same dog. "You mean 'Salesman'?" the lodge owner assured him. "The price is now ten dollars." The year following, the dog's name had been changed to "Super-Salesman" and the price was up to twenty dollars.

The huntsman grumbled, but couldn't do a thing about it. He just had to have the dog! So again he arrived at the lodge and put in his claim. But the owner registered despondency and sighed. "You can't have that dog any longer, mister. It's our fault. We've ruined him for hunting. This spring we renamed him 'Sales Manager' and from that moment on, all he's done is sit on his fanny and bark!"

MARRIAGE for THREE

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE
THE NEXT time Ann called Pinky—it was to invite her to share some crabs which she and Adam had bought in Albuquerque when they went down to the Cathedral for Easter Service—Pinky refused flatly, rudely, and then told Adam about it, the next time she saw him.

Her eyes were glinting, her mouth drawn thin and unsmiling. Adam put on his hat, took it off, rubbed his hand back over his hair. "Great god, Pinky!" he said unapologetically.

They were standing in the courtyard of the Governor's Palace, ostensibly examining the oxcart. It was a secluded spot; only tourists came there; the only local eyes would be those of the museum personnel, and their two Scottie dogs.

It was not a "date," Adam, coming down from Los Alamos, had seen Pinky on the sidewalk, and had pulled up beside her. "Let's go in here," she'd suggested. "I want to tell you something." And she had told him.

"I don't want you and Ann quarreling," Adam protested. "You surely don't expect us to go on being friends?" Her tone was sharp.

"Well—" "Oh, I see," said Pinky. You want to eat your cake and have it, too.

"It's a nice arrangement," he drawled. "Not for this cookie," she said, with a return to her usual manner of gay and challenging impudence.

Adam grinned. "You'll have Ann wondering about us." "I doubt it," said Pinky. She gave the wagon a push. Wives are born dumb, and stay stupid. They dole out love-making like they do pie to their husbands, or drinks on Saturday night. Her voice thinned. "You drank a bottle of beer before supper," she squeaked.

"You can't have a highball now." Then she whirled about, her green denim skirt flapping up around her bare knees. "It makes me wonder, often, why girls—women—can't grasp the elemental truth that a man expects to be treated like something other than a cash register. Any normal guy wants to get some fun out of life. He wants to pal with a wife who is something besides his cook and bottlewasher. He wants zip, zing, glamor!"

Adam stood studying the girl, watching her. Tall, vivid, excited and angry. "That's why I call women like Ann stupid, Adam!" "What makes them so dumb?" "Women like Ann take their marriages seriously," he said unapologetically. "And," he said roughly,

"they have every right to expect that of their husbands, too." Pinky smiled at him. "Only . . ."

Adam nodded, and fanned his hat at the big wooden wheel. "He meets some other girl, and before he knows it, he's gone on her."

"And likes it." "Yes," he agreed. "He likes it. But that doesn't necessarily mean . . ."

"That he wants his wife to find out. And she may not! That is the height of her stupidity! That is she knows that there is always some other dame lurking around in the shadows, ready to grab her man?" She should know that, but I guess she hardly ever does. Because she gets shocked when she finds out."

Adam grinned at her. "You're talking from experience, of course?"

Her eyes rounded. "Me? Oh! You mean Rod. No, baby, I've always known that the other woman has the most fun."

Emotional strain was taking its toll of Ann. She found her energy ebbing, found it harder each day to perform her household chores. So, at the suggestion of Mrs. Gore whom she had met at the hospital she decided to have a physical checkup.

Ann called at the office of Dr. Bates in town, and during the course of his questioning, she told him something of her marital difficulties. She told the doctor that she had considered leaving her husband.

"Why?" he asked. He sat tipped back in his chair, watching her. She knew that his waiting room was full, but he seemed ready to give Ann an unlimited amount of time.

"Well, I seem to have things all fouled up."

"Are you usually a quitter?" She looked at him, puzzled. "I mean," he clarified, "if you drop a glass of jelly on the kitchen floor, do you just walk out on the mess?"

She laughed. "No, but I guess I'd be tempted."

He nodded. "Don't blame you. It would be an awful mess." "You're telling me that I'm to blame for the mess I'm in?"

"Partly, at least. It takes two to make your particular sort of trouble."

"Yes," she agreed. Then she looked up, a wry smile on her soft lips. "I'm probably all to blame. Adam says I've never tried to like New Mexico. I've moped around and been hateful ever since we came here. Maybe if I'd snap out of that feeling, I'd find my other trouble tied up to it. I've been nasty to Adam. I haven't helped him one bit with his work. He's been busy, and I could have helped—at least, been decent to come home to." She broke off and studied the young doctor's face.

"Mental attitude is very important," he said quietly. She felt that he really wanted to help her. "I think that part of your trouble may be idleness. If you had a child—"

"I want children!" said Ann quickly. "And I'm sure you'll have them! But for right now you're not busy. Your husband is gone all day and you have a small apartment. Did you ever do any outside work, Mrs. Laird?"

"Oh, yes!" She told him of her job at the lumber yard, her bookkeeping for Adam and then she spoke of her work for the blood bank.

"Wonderful!" he cried. "We have a bank at the hospital here." "Yes, I know."

"I don't know that you could work there, exactly—the technicians do it—but Mrs. Gore, who sent you to me, is active in the Hospital Auxiliary, and I'll bet they could find things for you to do. You'd only need to say you were willing to help."

"Do you really think that would help me, Dr. Bates?"

"I'm not promising it will solve your domestic problems, Mrs. Laird," he said kindly. "But it will help you to get out of that mood you say you've been in. And if your temper has been behind your troubles—"

"Yes!" She stood up. "It'll be worth trying!"

He smiled. "I think so, too. Come back and see me in a week, will you? Take the vitamins I've ordered. You're too pretty a girl to lose your husband unless you want to."

That same afternoon, Ann went to see Mrs. Gore.

"Of course, we can use you!" the handsome woman said emphatically. "We'll go right over and tell Sister you're available."

Ann laughed, and watched with envious admiration the way this woman, probably the most socially eminent in town, just smoothed down her blue chambray skirt and went out to the station wagon with Ann.

"The hospital is Catholic, of course," said Mrs. Gore as they drove along, "but the Auxiliary is non-denominational. However, we all have to get along with the Sisters."

"I'll remember," Ann promised. (To Be Continued)

This seems to be the case on the New York waterfront where members of the International Longshoremen's Association walked out without an authorization by their officers or a membership vote to strike. It made no difference, either, that the union was pledged not to strike during the term of the present contract.

The government has a Waterfront Commission to adjust disputes. Recently the Commission refused to grant a work license to a man with a criminal past. The anger of the longshoremen exploded, even though the Commission was merely performing its duty. Instead of asking for a rehearing and pursuing due processes, the workers renounced authority and quit.

This contempt for authority, particularly among seafaring workers, is disquieting because of the charges of communist infiltration into such unions on both East and West coasts and in all the free countries. It has been said that the Kremlin probably could tie up the shipping of the world at a signal.

Whether true or not, it is something to bear in mind as organized labor in the United States struggles to free itself of all "party line" infiltration. It is a situation to be cleared up well ahead of any international emergency.

ATOMIC CHALLENGE

WITH THE application of atomic energy to peacetime uses becoming more imminent daily, the scientists are hard at work to find a method of protection against the effects of atomic radiation. One method of treatment has worked out with fair success with laboratory animals and is being studied for human requirements.

This would require the person exposed to a strong dose of radiation to take a pill of a chemical called "thiuronium." Next he would get an injection of bone marrow to hasten recovery from radiation effects, followed by a shot of streptomycin, to hold down bacterial infection which is potentially high in cases of radiation damage.

At the Atomic Energy Commission laboratory at Oak Ridge, where this triple-gaited protective procedure has been evolved, it is not known but that the proposed chemical antidote may be too toxic for man to take. One thing is certain, however, if man is to live with atomic energy he will have to find a safe, quick way to stay alive in spite of its lethal peril.

Science, which has unraveled many a medical mystery that once lay beyond the boundaries of human knowledge, confronts a problem all the more challenging because it stems from man's own ingenuity.

EXPORTING CAPITAL

BETTING against war, depression and other world calamities, private capital in the United States is investing heavily in foreign lands. The total has now reached $26.6 billion from which, the Department of Commerce announces, earnings of $2.5 billion were derived last year.

One approach to foreign investment is through the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development. This World Bank, financed by 56 member nations, is more and more turning over prospective loans to interested U. S. financiers. They lend for roads, factories and other improvements in countries appearing to have political stability.

It is not difficult to envision a time when the booming American economy will have a dynamic outlet abroad, exporting its surplus wealth and providing jobs and business opportunities for thousands of young Americans in many lands.

GOOD POLIO NEWS

PROOF THAT the Salk vaccine is preventing paralytic polio continues to pile up. Partial figures on a situation approaching epidemic proportions in Massachusetts showed 15 cases of paralytic and non-paralytic polio per 10,000 among unvaccinated children. There was less than one case per 10,000 among children vaccinated with two or more shots of the vaccine.

These Days

There are several kinds of tax-free money but there is no category which permits political activity. The issue then is: What is a political activity?

The Fund for the Republic, established by the Ford Foundation which is fed by the profits of the Ford Motor Company, defines its own function as follows:

"The Fund for the Republic was established to deal with problems that exist today. It expects to spend its principal as fast as this can be judiciously done. It is not engaged in the support of long-term research. It is not interested in scholarship as such. Nor is it concerned with general education. Its efforts are focused on the immediate issues of civil liberties. When it engages in research, or sponsors it, the Fund is seeking to obtain answers to questions that are pressing now."

In a word, it is not a scholarly or research organization; it is not engaged in education or charity. It exists to deal with problems of the day.

Further in the report, the Fund specifies the problems of the day which concern it:

"... A political party in this country has been identified with the 'enemy.' Those associated with this party have therefore come under suspicion as an imminent danger to the state. In view of the weapons now available and of the examples of subversion that other countries have offered, the danger has seemed great, though often mysterious and intangible. It has appeared that the peril to the country could be dealt with only by methods that drastically departed from those which have characterized Anglo-American jurisprudence."

What is the name of the "political party that has been identified with the 'enemy'?" Obviously, it is the Communist Party, U.S.A. Are we to take it, from this statement, that the Ford Foundation has contributed $15,000,000 to the Fund for the Republic to defend the Communist Party?

Apparently Robert Hutchins, who wrote the report from which I quote, surely could not have meant the Republican Party or the Democratic Party or even, the Liberal Party, for it is only the Communist Party which has been identified with the "enemy." (The quotation marks are Hutchins'.)

Further, we might ask: who is this "enemy"? Hutchins also leaves that name out, perhaps from coyness. Well, we know who the enemy is, because this country has been sorely taxed by him. The "enemy" is Soviet Russia and its agent in the United States is the Communist Party.

It might, in this connection, be of value to report the findings of the Australian Commission on this subject:

"Without communism, Soviet espionage could have no hope of success in this country and the existence here of Communists who were and are willing to act to the prejudice of Australia was the fundamental cause of the formation of our Security Service and necessitates its retention in its present role as a 'fourth service' essential to the security and defense of Australia."

So, Robert Hutchins, having stated the problem which faces the Fund for the Republic, proceeds to dodge it.

"The Fund for the Republic takes no position on these matters, beyond affirming its faith in the principles upon which our government is founded, as set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution."

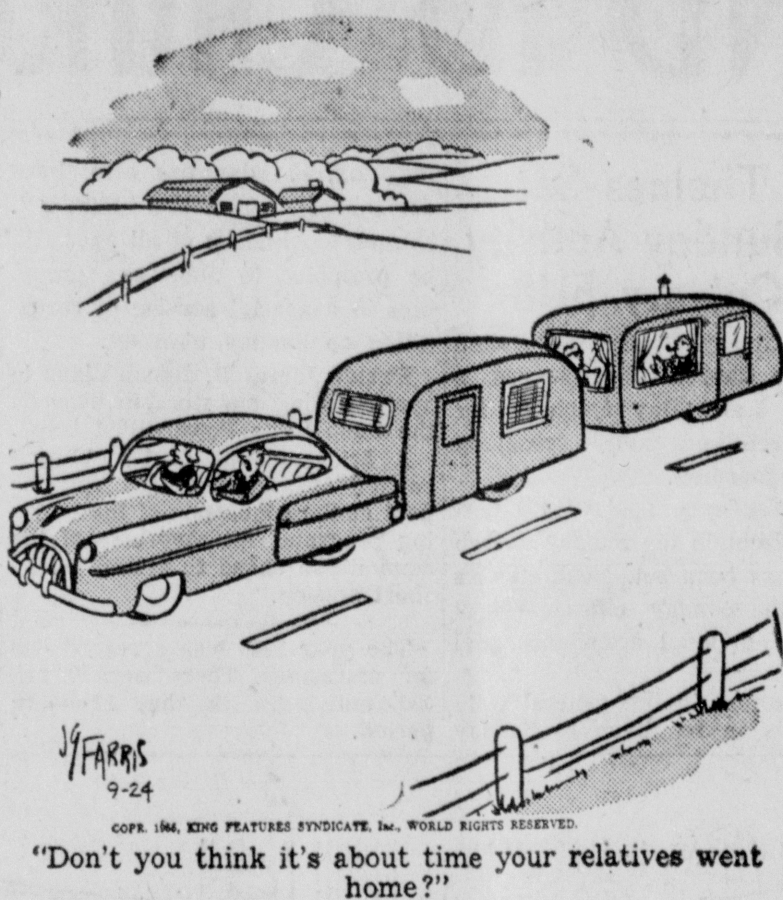

Whereupon it sends investigators all over the country to discover what has been done to interfere with the free functioning of Communists in the United States. Some of these investigators have long been rejected by opponents of Communism. With one exception, for instance, those who tried to contact me were objectionable to me both as persons and for their prior political activities. One is not required to receive in his home or at his office a person whom he would not ordinarily receive only because that person got a job with the Fund for the Republic.

What this report of the Fund for the Republic indicates to me, as a student of these problems and methods, is that the Fund, as an action organization, is attempting to use the $15,000,000 that the Ford Foundation has given it, to take over the work of the Congressional committees and to smother all anti-Communist investigations and activities. If that is its intention, it will fail. If that is not its intention, why interfere with the Congressional committees?

closed that the vaccine is having a good effect everywhere. Comparisons supplied by 23 states proved that in each age group there was less polio after vaccination.

After the uncertainties of last spring this is the best possible news. Parents everywhere now can be reasonably certain that the worst effects of polio belong to the past.

The War On Asthma

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU don't have to suffer from asthma.

While we can't cure you, we can, with the proper drugs, control just about any asthmatic attack.

There are numerous drugs which will act effectively depending, of course, upon certain conditions.

Doctor's Prescription

A doctor's prescription is required for virtually all of them. Indeed, I hope I don't have to caution you against taking any medicine for a disease such as this without your doctor's advice.

But it might relieve you a bit to know just how many drugs there are in case you need them and what some of them will do.

The most valuable drug in treatment of asthma for some time has been ephedrine. It still is, although ACTH and cortisone frequently produce dramatic results.

A modified form of Sus-Phrine is effective in small doses. It does not produce the side reactions which sometimes accompany ephedrine.

Isuprel is helpful in milder cases.

Works Slowly

Many doctors prefer use of ephedrine either orally or by injection. If taken by mouth, it works slowly and frequently makes the patient nervous.

Aminophylline can be given intravenously, through the mouth, or by rectal instillation.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

N. G.: I seem to have more saliva in my mouth than usual. Does it mean anything?

Answer: The normal amount of saliva varies in different individuals.

A great increase occurs occasionally in nervous diseases, in acute infections, infections of the mouth and especially from the use of certain drugs as well as tobacco.

After the cause for this condition has been determined, proper treatment can be carried out by your physician.

Try, Stop Me

A prosperous merchant went South on vacation to do a little hunting. He rented a hunting dog for five dollars at the lodge he patronized and sallied forth. It soon became apparent that this dog was a champion. In one hour the merchant was back with a full bag, his reputation as a huntsman greatly enhanced.

The next year he demanded the same dog. "You mean 'Salesman'?" the lodge owner assured him. "The price is now ten dollars." The year following, the dog's name had been changed to "Super-Salesman" and the price was up to twenty dollars.

The huntsman grumbled, but couldn't do a thing about it. He just had to have the dog! So again he arrived at the lodge and put in his claim. But the owner registered despondency and sighed. "You can't have that dog any longer, mister. It's our fault. We've ruined him for hunting. This spring we renamed him 'Sales Manager'."

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

THE NEXT time Ann called Pinky—it was to invite her to share some crabs which she and Adam had bought in Albuquerque when they went down to the Cathedral for Easter Service—Pinky refused flatly, rudely, and then told Adam about it, the next time she saw him.

Her eyes were glinting, her mouth drawn thin and unsmiling. Adam put on his hat, took it off, rubbed his hand back over his hair. "Great dog, Pinky!" he said unhappily.

They were standing in the courtyard of the Governor's Palace, ostensibly examining the oxcart. It was a secluded spot; only tourists came there; the only local eyes would be those of the museum personnel, and their two Scottie dogs.

It was not a "date," Adam, coming down from Los Alamos, had seen Pinky on the sidewalk, and had pulled up beside her. "Let's go in here," she'd suggested. "I want to tell you something." And he had told him.

"I don't want you and Ann quarreling," Adam protested.

"You surely don't expect us to go on being friends?" Her tone was sharp.

"Well—"

"Oh, I see," said Pinky. You want to eat your cake and have it, too."

"It's a nice arrangement," he drawled.

"Not for this cookie," she said, with a return to her usual manner of gay and challenging impudence.

Adam grinned. "You'll have Ann wondering about us."

"I doubt it," said Pinky. She gave the wagon a push. Wives are born dumb, and stay stupid. They dole out love-making like they do pie to their husbands, or drinks on Saturday night." Her voice thinned. "You drank a bottle of beer before supper," she squeaked.

"You can't have a highball now."

Then she whirled about, her green denim skirt flapping up around her bare knees.

"It makes me wonder, often, why girls—women—can't grasp the elemental truth that a man expects to be treated like something other than a cash register. Any normal guy wants to get some fun out of life. He wants to pal with a wife who is something besides his cook and bottlewasher. He wants zip, zing, glamor!"

Adam stood studying the girl, watching her. Tall, vivid, excited and angry. "That's why I call women like Ann stupid, Adam!"

"What makes them so dumb?"

"Women like Ann take their marriages seriously," he said unhappily. "And," he said roughly,

"they have every right to expect that of their husbands, too."

Pinky smiled at him. "Only . . ."

Adam nodded, and fanned his hat at the big wooden wheel. "He meets some other girl, and before he knows it, he's gone on her."

"And likes it."

"Yes," he agreed. "He likes it. But that doesn't necessarily mean . . ."

"That he wants his wife to find out. And she may not! That is the height of her stupidity! That is she knows that there is always some other dame lurking around in the shadows, ready to grab her man? She should know that, but I guess she hardly ever does. Because she gets shocked when she finds out."

Adam grinned at her. "You're talking from experience, of course?"

Her eyes rounded. "Me? Oh! You mean Rod. No, baby, I've always known that the other woman has the most fun."

Emotional strain was taking its toll of Ann. She found her energy ebbing, found it harder each day to perform her household chores. So, at the suggestion of Mrs. Gore whom she had met at the hospital she decided to have a physical checkup.

Ann called at the office of Dr. Bates in town, and during the course of his questioning, she told him something of her marital difficulties. She told the doctor that she had considered leaving her husband.

"Why?" he asked. He sat tipped back in his chair, watching her. She knew that his waiting room was full, but he seemed ready to give Ann an unlimited amount of time.

"Well, I seem to have things all fouled up."

"Are you usually a quitter?"

She looked at him, puzzled.

"I mean," he clarified, "if you drop a glass of jelly on the kitchen floor, do you just walk out on the mess?"

She laughed. "No, but I guess I'd be tempted."

He nodded. "Don't blame me. It would be an awful mess."

"You're telling me that I'm to blame for the mess I'm in?"

"Partly, at least. It takes two to make your particular sort of trouble."

"Yes," she agreed. Then she looked up, a wry smile on her soft lips. "I'm probably all to blame. Adam says I've never tried to like New Mexico. I've moped around and been hateful ever since we came here. Maybe if I'd snap out of that feeling, I'd find my other trouble tied up to it. I've been nasty to Adam, I haven't helped him one bit with his work. He's been busy, and I could have helped—"

—at least, been decent to come home to." She broke off and studied the young doctor's face.

"Mental attitude is very important," he said quietly. She felt that he really wanted to help her. "I think that part of your trouble may be idleness. If you had a child—"

"I want children!" said Ann quickly.

"And I'm sure you'll have them! But for right now you're not busy. Your husband is gone all day and you have a small apartment. Did you ever do any outside work, Mrs. Laird?"

"Oh, yes!" She told him of her job at the lumber yard, her bookkeeping for Adam and then she spoke of her work for the blood bank.

"Wonderful!" he cried. "We have a bank at the hospital here."

"Yes, I know."

"I don't know that you could work there, exactly—the technicians do it—but Mrs. Gore, who sent you to me, is active in the Hospital Auxiliary, and I'll bet they could find things for you to do. You'd only need to say you were willing to help."

"Do you really think that would help me, Dr. Bates?"

"I'm not promising it will solve your domestic problems, Mrs. Laird," he said kindly. "But it will help you to get out of that mood you say you've been in. And if your temper has been behind your troubles—"

"Yes!" She stood up. "It'll be worth trying!"

He smiled. "I think so, too. Come back and see me in a week, will you? Take the vitamins I've ordered. You're too pretty a girl to lose your husband unless you want to."

That same afternoon, Ann went to see Mrs. Gore.

"Of course, we can use you!" the handsome woman said emphatically. "We'll go right over and tell Sister you're available."

Ann laughed, and watched with envious admiration the way this woman, probably the most socially eminent in town, just smoothed down her blue chambray skirt and went out to the station wagon with Ann.

"The hospital is Catholic, of course," said Mrs. Gore as they drove along, "but the Auxiliary is non-denominational. However, we all have to get along with the Sisters."

"I'll remember," Ann promised. (To Be Continued)

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnhart of Kingsport, and Mr. Current is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Current of Frankfort Route 1. Vases of white gladiolus centerpieces with pompons, seven-branched menorahs and palms decorated the altar for the ceremony, which was read by the Rev. Harry Baker. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a wedding gown styled with a fitted Chantilly lace bodice and matching jacket featuring a Queen Ann collar and long sleeves. Her bouffant skirt of tulle over satin was styled with a lace plume which dipped to a point in back.

Barnhart-Current Wedding Head In Chillicothe Church

Pickaway Countians Attend Ceremony

A wedding of interest to Circleville and the community was held at the Trinity Methodist church in Chillicothe, when Miss Doretta Barnhart became the bride of James V. Current.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnhart of Kingsport and Mr. Current is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Current of Frankfort Route 1.

Vases of white gladioli centered with pompons, seven-branch delabara and palms decorated the altar for the ceremony, which was read by the Rev. Harry Baker. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a wedding gown styled with a fitted Chantilly lace bodice and matching jacket featuring a Queen Ann collar and long sleeves. Her bouffant skirt of tulle over satin was styled with a lace plenum which dipped to a point in back.

She wore a pearl crown to hold fingertip veil of French illusion. Her bouquet was a white orchid centering an arrangement of pink roses, all topped a Bible.

Mrs. Nolan Seitz of Ashville was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a blue ballerina gown of tulle over satin, with a tulle stole. Miss Virginia Current, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid in a gown of blue nylon net over satin.

Miss Melissa Minney of Frankfort was flower girl. She was attired in a ballerina-length dress of blue nylon. Her flowers were of pink roses.

All attendants wore headpieces of nylon and tulle. Mrs. Seitz and Miss Current carried colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and white flowers, tied with pink streamers. They also wore strands of pearls, gifts of the bride.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John Kane at the organ. Robert Page served as vocalist.

A reception for 80 guests was held in the church parlor. Ivy and white candles encircled the wedding cake and vases of garden flowers completed the decorations.

Mrs. Barnhart received her guests in a navy blue dress, with matching accessories accented with corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Current, mother of the groom, also wore a dress of navy blue. Her accessories were in pink, and she also wore a pink carnation corsage.

Among the hostesses at the reception was Mrs. Albert Barnhart of Ashville. Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Drake and Miss Mary Drake of Circleville; Albert Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brady and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Seitz of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reichelderfer of Williamsport, and guests from Mansfield, Groveport, Westerville, Dayton, Columbus and Chillicothe. # Tigers Drop 13-7 Decision To Linden McKinley Team

CHS Holds Panthers To 12-Yard Total In 2nd Half; Winners Score On First Play From Scrimmage

(Into each life some rain must fall!)

Linden McKinley scored a 48-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage, added an extra point and scored again midway through the second period to defeat Circleville 13 to 7 during a continuous rain.

The CHS Tigers could not hit pay dirt until only 44 seconds remained in the third quarter. A dazzling 19-yard run by quarterback Dick Banks with the aid of equally amazing blocking — especially one by end Jay Curry — and a point-after-touchdown run by right halfback Joe Hill put the Tigers within striking distance.

In the entire second half of the game, Linden McKinley had a total of seven yards rushing and five more from passing. Meanwhile, CHS piled up 133 yards rushing and 25 by passing in the same period of time.

CHS outdid the Panthers in total offense, chalking up 246 yards (officially) while Linden managed 170 (unofficially). The Tigers tried six passes, completed four of them good for 84 yards; Linden completed only two of seven aerial attempts for 30 yards.

Linden's fullback, Larry

Haase, took Joe Hill's opening kickoff on his 35 and ran it back to the Circleville 48. Left halfback Byron Riffle then knifed through the left side of his line on a trap play and scored with only 35 seconds gone. John Campbell made the extra point good with a placement kick.

During that first quarter, Linden got down to the Circleville 5 but fumbled and the Tigers recovered. CHS worked the ball out to their own 30, only to lose the pigskin on a fumble as the period came to an end.

In the second quarter, CHS took over the ball on downs and worked it to their own 37. Hill's attempted punt struck one of his own blockers and he fell on the loose ball on the 23 and Linden took over.

Linden halfback Lanny Gaskalla ran to the 6. Four plays later, Riffle boomed over from the 4 as the clock read 6:07. Campbell's conversion try struck one of the goal posts and harmlessly bounced back onto the field.

Circleville began to move near the end of the half. A Banks-to-Curry pass, which was miraculously caught, was good for 31 yards to the Linden 20. However, one play later the gun went off.

TAKING LINDEN'S second half kickoff, CHS marched steadily to the Linden 4, only to lose the ball on downs. The Panthers kicked out on third down and then the Tigers went from the Linden 31 to pay dirt with only 44 seconds left in the third period.

As the final quarter started, the rain increased. Linden could not move the ball past the 30 and punted. However, Circleville fumbled the reception and Linden recovered on the CHS 27. But the Tigers held and took over on downs on the 24.

After jockeying back and forth near mid-field, a Banks-to-Jim McConnell pass was good for 33 yards and Circleville had the ball on the Panther 22. However, two penalties set them back 10 yards.

A Banks-to-McConnell pass to the Linden 16 was ruled complete because of interference, giving the Tigers a first down on the 16. Three running plays and a pass failed to get the necessary yardage and Linden took over and ran out the remaining 90 seconds.

(With only four yards to go for a first down, Circleville tried a sleeper play with Eddie Tomlinson flanked out near the sidelines. However, an official not seeing Tomlinson accidentally bumped into him and both went to the ground, spoiling the play CHS had set up.)

CIRCLEVILLE'S record is now 1-1, as they had blanked Athens last week 19 to 0. Linden is now 2-0, having defeated Washington C. H. 25 to 7.

Next week, the Tigers travel to Wilmington, who got severely bruised by Xenia Central 40 to 0. The following week, CHS travels to Hillsboro, who also lost their opener 12 to 6 to West Carrollton.

The Tigers return on Oct. 14 to take on St. Charles. Then they meet Rosary and Greenfield here, travel to Delaware and finally play host to the WCH Blue Lions here Nov. 11 to close out the season.

Eagles, Giants Due To Open Pro Grid Card

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants, two prime contenders for championship honors, kick off the 36th annual National Football League season here tonight before an expected 25,000 fans.

The Eagles-Giants clash is the first of six games to be played in three days.

The league champion Cleveland Browns battle Sunday at home against the improved Washington Redskins, while Detroit, Western Conference winner, travels to Green Bay for its opener. The Chicago Bears, a contender for Western honors, are at Baltimore and Los Angeles is at San Francisco Sunday. And Monday night, the Chicago Cardinals visit the Pittsburgh Steelers.

In the East, Cleveland, with Otto Graham back at quarterback after a short lived retirement, faces trouble from the Eagles, winners of six exhibition games without defeat, and from the Giants, considered a rough combination despite an unimpressive 2-4 preseason record. Washington, the Steelers and Cardinals should make trouble but appear unlikely to take threats.

Turning to the West, Detroit is hard hit by the retirement of a number of stars from its three-time conference champion club, and faces the possibility star passer Bobby Layne may be available only for limited service because of an injury. The Bears, with George Halas in his last year as coach; Los Angeles and San Francisco, all have the "horses" with which to dethrone the Lions, Baltimore and Green Bay are much improved but unlikely champions.

Haas Takes Lead In Golf Tourney

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Veteran Fred Haas held a two-stroke lead today as the $43,000 Sponsors Tournament entered the third round here.

The 39-year-old resident of New Orleans, now playing out of Claremont, Calif., shot into the top spot with his second straight sub par round at the halfway mark of the 72-hole pro competition.

Haas toured the 6,431-yard layout in two under par 70 yesterday for a total of 137 for 36 holes, breaking an opening round deadlock with Art Wall Jr.

Lopez Uncertain About Next Year

DETROIT (AP)—It was an obvious question but Al Lopez said, quite frankly, he couldn't answer it. "What do you plan for next year?" was the query.

"I honestly don't know," replied the manager of the Cleveland Indians after learning last night his team had been dethroned by New York as champions of the American League.

"I haven't discussed the situation with Hank Greenberg (Cleveland general manager)," he said. "So I really can't talk about next year yet."

Explanation Given On How Drunken Driving Is Determined

Different Tests Can Be Utilized For Motorists

Officers Extremely Cautious Prior To Making Accusation

Many Pickaway Countians often wonder how law enforcement officials determine what constitutes a drunken driver.

First, let it be known that officers do not just pick up a driver on the spur of the moment. Even if they have received a call, rather than having seen the driver first, an officer will follow a motorist for some distance before apprehending him.

Second, an officer must make sure that the "questionable actions" of a car are not due to the mechanics of the (broken shock absorbers, steering columns, etc.) There are several different tests which can be given to a motorist. Here are some of them, as related by State Patrolman Gene Miller:

REACTION TEST

(This can be given at the scene of apprehension, or later at the police station. A motorist may be asked to do the following:)

1. Put heels together, arms down at the sides and close the eyes (a tipsy driver will usually lose his sense of balance and waver).
2. Extend arms out, close the eyes and try to touch the nose (a drunk driver will usually miss the target by "a mile").
3. Walk heel to toe down a straight line (one who has had "one too many" may stumble or even fall).
4. Pick up some coins which have been placed on the ground (drunkenness may cause a suspect to miss the coins entirely or even fall over).
5. Repeat tongue-twisting sentences (too much alcohol often makes persons have "thick" tongues, forcing them to speak incoherently).

BALLOON TEST

A suspect is asked to blow up a special balloon through a glass tube. A purple liquid is poured over white crystals in the balloon. The liquid turns the crystals purple. However, if the crystals turn white again within 30 seconds, the motorist is booked as a drunk driver.

The remainder of the subject's breath in the balloon is sent in to Columbus for further analysis and the trial postponed for 10 days until the results are returned.

BLOOD-ALCOHOL TEST

This is the most common one used. A specimen of the suspect's blood is taken by a lab technician at the hospital and treated with a chemical.

After a certain period of time, the blood sample turns color. This is then matched up with previously prepared samples containing known amounts of alcohol per cubic centimeter to determine what per cent of alcohol is contained in the suspect's blood specimen.

In Pickaway County, as in most of Ohio, samples of blood with a reading of .15 or more are admissible evidence in court as a basis for a drunk driving accusation. Sometimes, a urinalysis is taken as a further test. Even complete physical examinations have been conducted.

However, results of these tests are not conclusive proof of guilt. A number of factors have to be considered:

1. Some people can "hold" much more liquor than others without being affected by it.
2. Some people have diseases which will affect the results (sugar diabetes, for example).
3. How long before the subject was apprehended was the liquor consumed (has the subject eaten anything since drinking).

cohol is contained in the suspect's blood specimen.

One MOTORIST who has had one or two drinks may be considered more "drunk" than another who has downed a dozen. Therefore, officers usually take meticulous precautions before officially accusing a motorist of drunk driving.

Drunken driving is a serious accusation and officers like definite proof before charging a suspect in court. There have been cases where persons in a coma have reacted like a drunk driver.

So it is not just guesswork.

Thugs Get $3450 In Cleveland Cafe

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three bandits, their faces hidden by handkerchiefs, held 30 customers at bay today in an east side bar and escaped with a reported $3,450.

While one man with a double-barreled shotgun and another with a pistol guarded the customers, the third vaulted over the bar and scooped up some $3,000 from a cash register. Then the customers were robbed of $450.

Autopsy Reveals No Violence

GEORGETOWN (AP)—An autopsy on the body of Joe Perraut, 25-year-old Aberdeen farmer, disclosed no evidence of violence, Sheriff Dwight Harmon says.

Perraut's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perraut of Washington, Ky., sought yesterday's autopsy, saying they had reason to believe he died of "unnatural causes."

His widow said he fell to his death Sept. 5 from a barn loft where they had been seeking to capture some chickens.

Shelved Retirement Plans Recalled By Comic Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Bob Hope was filming the first of eight TV hours he'll do this season, including one in London and another in Paris. He'll also make two or three pictures in the coming year.

"And I'm the guy who was going to retire last year," he laughs.

Bob was getting some relaxation before going to his TV rehearsal. He was chipping some 75-yard shots on the golf range behind his Toluca Lake home. His iron game, he said proudly, was the best it has ever been, thanks to some tips from Ben Hogan.

He finished up and went into the house for a lunch of fried eggs, Canadian bacon and toast. While eating the meager meal, he told how he almost retired.

"I was down in Palm Springs playing golf with my first agent, Charlie Yates," Bob related. "Charlie dropped dead right in front of me. He lay there stone cold for 20 minutes until they came for him.

"It didn't really affect me for three days. Then the shock set in. I was terribly upset. Then I thought I was dying. About this time, NBC came to me with a new contract deal. I told them nothing doing; I was retiring."

The depressed Hope went to his doctor for a complete physical. That's when his spirits changed. "He told me to get out of his office," Hope said. "In fact, he chased me down the street. I was too healthy."

As a result, he signed a new pact with NBC calling for eight TV shows a year.

Sheppard Custody Battle Is Averted

CLEVELAND (AP)—A legal battle over the custody of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's 7-year-old son was averted yesterday when the boy's aunt withdrew her guardianship application.

Mrs. Henrietta Munn, an aunt of the boy's murdered mother, Marilyn Sheppard, had filed the application last July, the day after Dr. Sheppard went to the Ohio Penitentiary to serve a life sentence for second-degree murder.

Since the July 4, 1954 slaying, the boy, Chip, has lived with the family of Dr. Stephen Sheppard, a brother of the convicted osteopath.

Dayton, O., and its suburbs have produced 17 million refrigerating units, including air conditioners, since 1921.

Gallipolis Woman Due For Hearing

GALLIPOLIS (AP)—Arraignment in common pleas court here today is expected for Mrs. Ruth Schult, 30, charged with first-degree murder in the shotgun death of her husband, Alfred, 34, sports editor of the Gallipolis Tribune.

She pleaded innocent yesterday through her attorney at a preliminary hearing on the charge, and was returned to county jail.

Schult, a former mental patient, had been living at the home of her parents, where her husband was killed early Thursday.

Explanation Given On How Drunken Driving Is Determined

Different Tests Can Be Utilized For Motorists

Officers Extremely Cautious Prior To Making Accusation

Many Pickaway Counties often wonder how law enforcement officials determine what constitutes a drunken driver.

First, let it be known that officers do not just pick up a driver on the spur of the moment. Even if they have received a call, rather than having seen the driver first, an officer will follow a motorist for some distance before apprehending him.

Second, an officer must make sure that the "questionable actions" of a car are not due to the mechanics of the (broken shock absorbers, steering columns, etc.)

There are several different tests which can be given to a motorist. Here are some of them, as related by State Patrolman Gene Miller:

REACTION TEST

(This can be given at the scene of apprehension, or later at the police station. A motorist may be asked to do the following:)

1. Put heels together, arms down at the sides and close the eyes (a tipsy driver will usually lose his sense of balance and waver).
2. Extend arms out, close the eyes and try to touch the nose (a drunk driver will usually miss the target by "a mile").
3. Walk heel to toe down a straight line (one who has had "one too many" may stumble or even fall).
4. Pick up some coins which have been placed on the ground (drunkenness may cause a suspect to miss the coins entirely or even fall over).
5. Repeat tongue-twisting sentences (too much alcohol often makes persons have "thick" tongues, forcing them to speak incoherently).

BALLOON TEST

A suspect is asked to blow up a special balloon through a glass tube. A purple liquid is poured over white crystals in the balloon. The liquid turns the crystals purple. However, if the crystals turn white again within 30 seconds, the motorist is booked as a drunk driver.

The remainder of the subject's breath in the balloon is sent in to Columbus for further analysis and the trial postponed for 10 days until the results are returned.

BLOOD-ALCOHOL TEST

This is the most common one used. A specimen of the suspect's blood is taken by a lab technician at the hospital and treated with a chemical.

After a certain period of time, the blood sample turns color. This is then matched up with previously prepared samples containing known amounts of alcohol per cubic centimeter to determine what per cent of alcohol is contained in the suspect's blood specimen.

In Pickaway County, as in most of Ohio, samples of blood with a reading of .15 or more are admissible evidence in court as a basis for a drunk driving accusation. Sometimes, a urinalysis is taken as a further test. Even complete physical examinations have been conducted.

However, results of these tests are not conclusive proof of guilt. A number of factors have to be considered:

1. Some people can "hold" much more liquor than others without being affected by it.
2. Some people have diseases which will affect the results (sugar diabetes, for example).
3. How long before the subject was apprehended was the liquor consumed (has the subject eaten anything since drinking?).

ONE MOTORIST who has had one or two drinks may be considered more "drunk" than another who has downed a dozen. Therefore, officers usually take meticulous precautions before officially accusing a motorist of drunk driving.

Drunken driving is a serious accusation and officers like definite proof before charging a suspect in court. There have been cases where persons in a coma have reacted like a drunk driver. So it is not just guesswork.

Thugs Get $3450 In Cleveland Cafe

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three bandits, their faces hidden by handkerchiefs, held 30 customers at bay today in an east side bar and escaped with a reported $3,450.

While one man with a double-barreled shotgun and another with a pistol guarded the customers, the third vaulted over the bar and

Shelved Retirement Plans Recalled By Comic Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week Bob Hope was filming the first of eight TV hours he'll do this season, including one in London and another in Paris. He'll also make two or three pictures in the coming year.

"And I'm the guy who was going to retire last year," he laughs.

Bob was getting some relaxation before going to his TV rehearsal. He was chipping some 75-yard shots on the golf range behind his Toluca Lake home. His iron game, he said proudly, was the best it has ever been, thanks to some tips from Ben Hogan.

He finished up and went into the house for a lunch of fried eggs, Canadian bacon and toast. While eating the meager meal, he told how he almost retired.

"I was down in Palm Springs playing golf with my first agent, Charlie Yates," Bob related. "Charlie dropped dead right in

Autopsy Reveals No Violence

GEORGETOWN (AP)—An autopsy on the body of Joe Perrault, 25-year-old Aberdeen farmer, disclosed no evidence of violence, Sheriff Dwight Harmon says.

Perrault's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Perrault of Washington, Ky., sought yesterday's autopsy, saying they had reason to believe he died of "unnatural causes."

His widow said he fell to his death Sept. 5 from a barn loft where they had been seeking to capture some chickens.

scooped up some $3,000 from a cash register. Then the customers were robbed of $450.

Sheppard Custody Battle Is Averted

CLEVELAND (AP)—A legal battle over the custody of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's 7-year-old son was averted yesterday when the boy's aunt withdrew her guardianship application.

Mrs. Henrietta Munn, an aunt of the boy's murdered mother, Marilyn Sheppard, had filed the application last July, the day after Dr. Sheppard went to the Ohio Penitentiary to serve a life sentence for second-degree murder.

Since the July 4, 1954 slaying, the boy, Chip, has lived with the family of Dr. Stephen Sheppard, a brother of the convicted osteopath.

Dayton, O., and its suburbs have produced 17 million refrigerating units, including air conditioners, since 1921.

Gallipolis Woman Due For Hearing

GALLIPOLIS (AP)—Arraignment in common pleas court here today is expected for Mrs. Ruth Schult, 30, charged with first-degree murder in the shotgun death of her husband, Alfred, 34, sports editor of the Gallipolis Tribune. She pleaded innocent yesterday through her attorney at a preliminary hearing on the charge, and was returned to county jail. Mrs. Schult, a former mental patient had been living at the home of her parents, where her husband was killed early Thursday.
